

WU Lin

Soprano

Graduate and major success from her class year at the Central Music Conservatory in Beijing, Wu Lin began her career in the famous Song and Dance Ensemble of the PLA General Political Department in China. Similarly, she made her Opera debut in the role of Liu in the Puccini opera: Turandot. Silver medallist in the National Chinese Television's Competition for young singers, the CCTV, she was invited to perform at the International Korea Festival in 2003 and the International Macao Music Festival in 2004.

Drawn to the artistic environment in France, Wu Lin currently splits her time between Paris and Beijing. She graduated in Operatic and Concert Art from the National Music School in Paris/Alfred Cortot in Anna-Arie Rood's class in 2005. In April 2007, she won 2nd Prize in the National Opera Singing Tournament - Les Amis du Bel Canto in Béziers. In the same year, UNESCO invited her to perform a series of concerts. In January 2009, the European Music Competition in Picardy awarded her 2nd Prize. She gave a series of recitals at the invitation of Singapore's Minister of Culture.

Willing to get involved in many humanitarian causes, Wu Lin gave an exceptional recital in Taiwan to raise money for the victims of the 2009 floods at the invitation of the Taiwanese President. She was also named as an Ambassador of the Life & Sunshine 2010 Exhibition for the Union of Disabled People in China.

After a final cycle of improvement at the National Conservatory for the Versailles Region, Wu Lin is preparing to return to the stage and opera in the works of Beethoven - Fidélío - and Weber - Freischütz - for the 2013 and 2014 seasons.
